Mr. Ukeke said that he was astonished to see the Nobles dojust as the Ministers say; also that the meaber of Koolaupoles knew a great deal about makes, and it was said in the Bible that they should feed upon the dust of the earth. But he was told by the Minister of Interior that spokes fed an rats. The first thing the Chiefs who advocated the introduc tion of these stakes would find out that all their fish will be missing out of the fish pends, and not only rats but fish would become scarce. He was therefore in favor of passing the bill without further argument.

Mr. Heuck wished to refer the bill to a Select Committee, and let them consult the Minister of Interior who would explain all to them, as he had some knowledge and books on the matter. [Eche. The Minister of Interior has said alf he knows on the subjectional ready.] And he wanted a denen or two imported and put in an enclosed space, and fed on rats, to see how sapidly they would be killed by them, if they were good be wanted to keep them, and if not serviceable to reject them. Mr. Wana favored rejecting the bill as he wanted something to exterminate the rats at Hanalei, which are doing much damage to cane there and also to rice at Waimea.

Mr. Eishop I am was surprised at the trivial objection made to the importation of snakes and said that all the rats could not be killed, if we kill half or a quarter even we would be doing a great deal. One person has remarked that the serpent shall feed upon the dust and not rats. There are some snakes that eat ballock, sheep, &c., and I think it is not proper to keep questing from the Bible in such a manner. I would favor punishing anybody for introducing any animal or vegetable that is injurious to the country, and why should we not introduce such things as would nuturally be of benefit to us. I am in favor of introducing every thing that will prove beneficial to the country.

Minister Hutchison—The introduction of these snakes will prove a great benefactor to the country in the way of killing rats, but if the people are universal in their opinion that these mimals are dangerous they will not be let loose, contrary to the wishes of the community, but they will be kept in their cages, and not allowed to get out, and if necessary to kill them

Mr. Kabauleio favored passing the bill. Motion to indefinitely postpone the section lost. Motion to pass second section as in the bill, carried,

Mr. Rhodes moved as an amendment to insert the word venousous before the word snake in the title of the bill. Lost. On motion Committee rose, and Chairman reported passage of the above bill. Minister Harris moved to reject the report of the Chairman, as some of the members who have spoken in favor of the passage of the bill have never seen any snakes, but have only read about them, and that a fixard and a crocodile look just alike, and feed alike, a lizard pounces upon a fly in the same manner as a crocodile would pounce upon an ox. Who in this House is afraid of a lizard? A cat is just the image of a tiger only smaller, and a cut springs upon a mouse the same as a tiger does on a horse; the cat would catch a horse if it could, The snakes spoken of by the Minister of Interior have the same relation to a venomous snake, as a cat does to a tiger, or a knard to a crocodile, and people are no more atraid of them than cuts. These suskes were as harmless on land as the cels were in the water. He hoped the members of the Assembly would think over it, when they went home.

Mr. Nahaku moved the previous question. Carried. Motion to reject the report of Committee put to vote and lost.
Motion to adopt report of Committee, carried, report adopted, and bill ordered to be engressed. Assembly adjourned.

This increase is hardly a fair exhibit as many of the invoices were not reduced in valuation equal to the reduction in the foreign sales of the produce exported. In sugar for instance. the foreign price is greatly reduced, while the invoice valuation during the early part of the year remained about the same-The importations have been as follows:

Imports for 6 months......$1,003,236 $692,110 Showing an increase of $310,126 over the first six months in the previous year, and an excess of imports over exports of one hundred and thirty thousand dollars during the first six months of 1866. On examining this tariff it will be seen that merchandise can be brought out and produce shipped home on through till lading in a specified time, and at rates little exceeding those of sailing vessels, and there is no doubt that merchants generally will avail themselves of so favorable an arrangement, especially as they can now count to a certainty on the day when they may expect their goods, or when their produce will reach its destination -Panama Star.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30.

We continue the Legislative reports from the 21st to the 26th inclusive. It is interesting to watch the extreme partiality of the Ministerial party, and its want of sympathy with the popular interests. The Hawaiian members asked that the Law Reports might be printed in their own language, rightfully arguing that if there was a public press, it should be used for enlightening the natives, and not devoted almost exclusively to the benefit of foreigners. Ministers replied it was too expensive to print these reports in native, would take too long a time to translate and print, and when done there would be none but a handful of native lawyers who would read them. It is truly sickening to see the Ministers driven from one excuse to another as they were on this subject, and saying that a simple publication of the Reports in a paper called the Au Okoa would serve all the purpose, as though Hawaiian interests were not paramount. There is point in the following remarks of the member from Koolaupoko, and the questions of Gov. Nahaolelua:

Mr. Ukeke said that the motion of the last speaker was with the intention of keeping the Hawaiian people in a happy state of ignorance as regards the doings of their own kingdom, and let the foreigners into everything that is going on. If the reports were originally printed in native, the people would see how quick the Ministers would want them printed in English. The Hawalian is the original language of the world, and to prove that, he would say that whatever foreigner arrives here can upon his arrival distinctly pronounce the word 'aloha," and that proved that Hawaiian was the original language.

Gov. Nahaolelua wanted to know why the Reports were printed at all.

Minister Harris answered him by saying that they were printed for the use of the Judges and lawyers, so that they might have them in a collected form, and not scattered through newspapers, and that they were intended for the present as well as future Judges and lawyers.

Gov. Nahaelelua said that he was of the opinion that the book ought to be printed, as it would be of benefit to the native as well as the foreign lawyers and Judges. He did not agree with the member from Kohala in his statement that the book was an unimportant one. If so, why was it published in English?

The bill has passed its second reading, but, judging from the very determined efforts to defeat it, it will probably be killed on its third reading.

On Tuesday, a somewhat singular communication was presented from His Majesty the King, requesting that the salaries of his Ministers be raised. They now receive four thousand dollars a year, and took office with the understanding that that was to be their pay. No doubt their salaries will now be raised, but the public will,

On Tuesday, the "anti-snake bill " came up, and the report of the discussion on it is worth reading. Here again we have a fair specimen of our Hawaiian Ministers. To understand the subject it should be stated that there are now no snakes on these Islands; that Dr. Hillebrand, who was sent to China and the East Indies as a Special Commissioner, to obtain coolies, &c., reports baving found, in Java, a species of snakes which are kept for the purpose of destroying rats. With these novelties he was at once perfectly charmed, and has secured a barrelful, which are expected to arrive in one of the first vessels from San Francisco. Of course there is a great and natural repugnance to the introduction of snakes of any kind. Goodrich, in his natural history, says that toothless snakes in the East are made so by extracting their fangs, and that in that condition they are considered harmless and kept as pets. We can find no allusion in any natural history to a species that lives on rats only, while nearly all snakes destroy mice, birds and chickens, and others live on fish. It is not improbable that a snake that will destroy rats, will destroy fowls. Be that as it may, the introduction of these reptiles is repugnant to the public sense, and ought to be prohibited, though as all the foreigners in the House side with the Ministers, we doubt whether the natives possess tact to get the present bill through. There is some probability that the Legislature will adjourn on or about the 10th of July. By a resolution which was adopted, no new bills can be introduced, and the old ones will rapidly be acted on, so that by the end of next week the work of the session will be virtually closed.

Our Diplomatic Guests.

It is seldom our city is favored with guests of more merited distinction than those whose arrival we announced last week-His Excellency of 150 tons burthen, and will leave Boston in Anson Burlingame, U. S. Minister Plenipotentiary to China, and His Excellency, R. B. Van | paper we observe the following relative to this Valkenburg, U. S. Minister Resident at Jedo, vessel. Japan. The latter has but recently been appointed to his mission, to take the place of Mr. Pruyn, who has requested to be recalled.

Mr. Burlingame has represented the American Government at the Court of Pekin during the past four years, and is now on his second trip thither. During his first residence in Pekin he was active in initiating a new policy between the four leading powers and China. Under this " co-operative policy," as it is termed, into which America, England, France and Russia have mutually entered, these powers agree to respect the nationality and territory of Ching, and preserve them intact. In case of local disputes, warlike demonstrations shall not be made against China until the question in dispute shall have been referred to the Home Government. All Chinese territory, held by either of the four Governments, shall be restored to it. This does not refer to Hongkong, however.

This policy is very similar to that pursued by the three powers-England, France and America -towards this Government. It is a guaranty of independence, and, also, to respect and sustowards bringing her into the family of nations. and will tend to elevate her position. One immediate result has been the springing up of a more friendly feeling on the part of the ruling classes in China towards foreigners. Formerly jealousy and suspicion everywhere prevailed; now, foreigners may travel without fear through the most distant parts of that vast realm, and explore her rivers to their sources and her mountains to their summits.

In the accomplishment of this important change of policy, Hon. Mr. Burlingame has taken a prominent part, having, in co-operation with Sir Frederick Bruce-then British Minister Plenipotentiary-initiated and pressed it through to a successful end. In Sir Frederick he found a warm Union friend, during those trying years of the rebellion, when foreigners delighted to sneer at Americans, and refer them to the "late United States." Not so with Sir Frederick. however, for he respected America for her noble institutions, and had faith in her power and ultimate victory. It was natural, therefore, that these Plenipotentiaries should work together amicably in a scheme which, though bold and untried, was believed would result in mutual good to all. Thus far it has worked well. The Home Governments of England and America having approved it, France and Russia hastened to come into the agreement, although it was a damper to their schemes of territorial aggrandizement. But the arguments presented by the advocates were irresistable.

Mr. Burlingame having returned on leave to America, the Government, on his arrival, considered his services so valuable that he was re-appointed to the same station. He has proved himself to be a skillful diplomatist, and one whom his Government will be loth to part with. The Emperor of China will, no doubt, consider his return as the most fortunate event that could take place, as his residence at Pekin will, of itself, be a guaranty of the continuance of a friendly policy on the part of foreign Govern-

On Saturday last the American residents tendered a public dinner to their diplomatic visitors, to take place after the funeral of the Princess, on Monday next. Under the circumstances of the Court being in mourning, the funeral taking place to-day, and their expected departure on Monday, they have declined the invitation. They will-leave in the bark Swallow, on Monday or Tuesday next, and the wishes of many friends will accompany them to Jedo

From the third annual report of this Society, published in the Friend, for July, we learn that its receipts from various sources, for the year ending May 31, 1866, were $5,838 32. The sources they were derived from, as also a comparison with previous years, may be seen by the follow-

This does not show the total amount raised by the native churches, as each contributes in part or in whole to the support of its paster. Inof course, be permitted to have its own opinion | cluding these sums the total raised by them, for the support of the gospel, does not fall short of ten thousand dollars a year.

The Association comprises the members of the American Mission and the native preachers, of whom twenty have been ordained and are now settled as pastors through the group. These natives, as also the younger portion of the foreign pastors, are supported wholly by the contributions of the churches over which they are settled, while the older Missionaries are still salaried by the parent Society in Boston. Their salaries range from $200 to $1,000 a year, parsonages in most cases being provided for them.

A Hawaiian Theological School is under the charge of the Rev. Wm. P. Alexander, at Wailuku, and has had nine or ten students during the past year, preparing to become preachers.

The Female Boarding Seminary, at Wailua, in charge of Rev. O. H. Gulick, which has now fifty girls in attendance, is intended to educate female Hawaiians in their own language, and fit them to become school teachers and wives of the Hawaiians pastors. It promises to be a success. It is under the charge and patronage of the As-

A number of publications have been issued the past year by the Association, being mostly primary books for the use of children. The Alaula, or Dayspring, an illustrated monthly juvenile paper, after the style of the American Tract Society's issue, is one of the most attractive publications ever issued here or elsewhere. We understand it has about 4,000 subscribers, and is everywhere welcomed by the natives. It is stated that 2,800,486 pages of publications have been issued the past year. A new Missionary packet is now building in Bosten, to be called the Morning Star, to take the place of the former vessel of the same name, and to be used in communicating with the Missions in Micronesia and Marquesas. She will be October for Honolulu direct. In a late Eastern VICTORIA KAMAMALU KAAHUMANU.

In addition to what is being done for these islands, the Association sustains several Mission stations in Micronesia and the Marquesas group, where some forty foreign and Hawaiian preachers and teachers are located. These Missions are reported as prospering.

From the Friend we also learn that Rev. Dr. Anderson, who for forty years has served the American Board as its Corresponding Secretary, has resigned and retired from the service, owing to advanced age. Rev. Mr. Clark, a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, has been appointed as his successor. Dr. Anderson's farewell letter is contained in the Friend.

Among the passengers by the brig, we notice Capt. Samuel James and Wm. Wilson, who are bound to Japan, "Westward the star of empire." &c.

> It is said that the indictment of Jeff Davis was drawn to meet the provisions of the Act of the 17th of July, 1862, which provides that any person who should thereafter put on foot, or engage in, rebellion against the United States, should be imprisoned not exceeding ten years, or fined not exceeding $10,000. and that Judge Field, of the Supreme Court, has expressed his opinion that this law repeals all the previous provisions of law for the punishment of trea-

The United States Consul at Australia has forwarded to General Spinner a specimen of the Australian "boomerang," being a weapon of war, used also in the chase. It consists of a heavy wooden club, about eight inches long, three wide, and onebalf inch thick; flat on one side and convex on the other; bent, without moving the flat side of its own plane, either into an arc or into an obtuse angle. The club is thrown flat side down, spinning with great velocity, and it will either return to ''s owner or turn to the right or left, according to its first position. It skims upon the air like a bird with the wings expanded, the rotation causing the plane of rotation to resist change of direction, thus avoiding those sudden and capricious movements observed in flat stones or plates of metal when thrown edgewise through the air. Naval architects have attempted to apply the principle of the boomerang to screw steamships, but so far the idea has not found favor with ship-builders.
